

USA Today

Do you know how to act around K9 Police Dogs?

Have you ever seen a police dog while it's working? Do you ever have the urge to just go over and pet it? It may not be a good idea. They are usually working and need to focus.

Here are some ideas on how to behave around K9 Police Dogs

1. If you see a police officer with his police dog, please do not run at them, do not scream around them, and do not try to pet the dog. They are probably working. Instead, walk by and speak quietly.
2. If you are at an event, and you see a K9 police dog, please do not just go up and pet it, unless the police officer says you can.
3. When a police dog is in the car, please do not go up to the window and bang on it, or shout. The police dog will get upset. You could admire it from afar though.
4. And finally, please do not get too close to the police officer. The dog is very protective and may get uncomfortable. Please keep your distance from the police officer.

K9 Units are a very important part of our community, and can't get distracted. They help keep our community safe.

From your friends from the Good Shepherd Crusaders #15196.

